DRIVE HIGH, GET A DUI

It is illegal to drive a motor vehicle under the influence of cannabis (also called marijuana). This includes cars, trucks, buses, motorcycles, aircraft, snowmobiles, off-road recreational vehicles, and motorboats.

There is no way to know how much cannabis is in your system after use. No level of cannabis is safe for driving.

DID YOU KNOW?

The penalties for driving with any amount of cannabis in your system are the same as those for driving under the influence of alcohol. Penalties include:

1. Up to a $500 fine
2. Up to 93 days in jail
3. License suspension
4. 6 points on your license

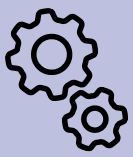
WHY IS DRIVING HIGH ILLEGAL?

Cannabis affects areas of the brain that control movement, balance, coordination, memory, and judgment.



Cannabis impairs important driving-related skills, like reaction time, tracking ability, and attention.

IF YOU CONSUME CANNABIS, DON'T DRIVE.

Designate a sober driver before consuming cannabis.

Call a friend, cab, ride service, walk, or take the bus.

Stay overnight and drive home in the morning.
